

Zayin Students

working on Jewish Partizans Testimonies

Kitah Zayin has been studying the Holocaust with Morah Dafna. We read testimonies given by holocaust survivors now living in America and Israel. The testimonies tell how these youth managed to live through the war as Jewish "partisans" - groups of teenage and university students who escaped to the forests and fought against the Nazis hiding out and practicing guerrilla warfare. They did things like destroy Nazi food supplies, blow up bridges, railroad tracks and supply trains. They did everything they could to disrupt the efficient Nazi war machine. They even dug underground tunnels to help Jews escape the Ghettos.
